

YOU & MATHS Represent this A piece of rope is cut into two pieces: one piece is  $\frac{3}{2}$  the length of the second piece. Represent the total length of the rope with a monomial with an integer coefficient.

You need to find a length that acts as a unit of measurement. You can call this length  $x$  and represent the rope as follows.

